MESSAGE

I am happy to know that National Institute of Rural Development and Panchayati Raj (NIRDPR) has adopted a focused approach in preparing the Annual Training Calendar 2024-25, considering the capacity building requirements of programme divisions of Ministry of Rural Development and other stakeholders.

NIRDPR being an apex Capacity Building Organization, has always played a crucial role in bridging the gaps between the Ministry and the field level functionaries, through demand driven trainings and handholding support for the stakeholders, leading to successful implementation of RD programmes. In the last two years, focused trainings imparted by NIRDPR for the stakeholders of MGNREGS, DAY-NRLM, DDUGKY, PMAY-G, SAGY and Social Audit has substantially increased the performance of these programmes. As part of Annual Capacity Building Plan (ACBP), the staff of various programme divisions of this Ministry are being trained on domain competencies to enhance their performance in their assigned roles. We are thankful to NIRDPR for supporting Ministry in this initiative.

I firmly believe that the workshops, conclaves and training programmes to be organized by NIRDPR during 2024-25 will benefit all the stakeholders and enable them to provide quality services to the rural population.

Best Wishes.

MESSAGE

I am pleased to know that NIRDPR has moved from traditional approach to focused approach in preparing the training calendar for the past 2 years and that the Calendar for 2024-25 has been prepared based on the outcomes of various workshops organized by the institute, in addition to inputs from research findings, annual action plans of States & UTs, requirements received from programme divisions of MoRD & other ministries, budget announcements and policy level suggestions received from various committees.

The changing rural landscape, technology advancements and the need for fast pace of implementation place a demand on us to focus on implementing specific Capacity Building and Training programmes for stakeholders, keeping in view the time lines and available resources. I understand that NIRDPR is adopting a systematic approach in designing training programs on specific topics and focus areas by organizing scoping workshops, expert consultations, writeshops for training module preparation and conducting Training of Trainers (ToT) programs for State level officials, followed by rolling-out the programs to district level in cascade mode through the 29 SIRDPRs and 90 ETCs.

I congratulate the Director General and the Training Cell of NIRDPR in bringing out the Training Calendar 2024-25. I wish all the faculty of NIRDPR a success in their endeavour.

(Caralyn Khongwar Deshmukh)

FOREWORD

Training and Capacity Building has been the core strength of NIRDPR for the past 65 years. The programmes of NIRDPR are intended to create knowledge base, develop skills and infuse the right attitude and values among the participants. The focus of the programmes of NIRDPR is on building capacities of development professionals of the country for effective management and implementation of ongoing flagship programmes for rural development and strengthening Panchayati Raj Institutions. NIRDPR believes that institutional partnership is the key for imparting need based training programs for ensuring greater synergy of efforts and maximizing use of knowledge resources. In 2023-24, the institute built the capacities of nearly 83,000 participants through 1790 programmes, including 5000 Block Level Officials (BLOs) associated with Aspirational Blocks Programme (ABP) of NITI Aayog.

In order to identify the specific capacity building and training needs of the stakeholders and deliver demand driven programs, a focused approach is being adopted in preparing the Training Calendar for the last three years. The key focus areas of training for 2024-25 were finalized based on outcomes of the workshops conducted by faculty on various thematic areas, requirements received from various programme divisions of MoRD and other Ministries, outcomes of various research findings, annual action plans of States & UTs, policy level suggestions received from GC and EC members and also from the feedback received from the participants. I am glad that for the academic year 2024-25, NIRDPR proposes to organise nearly 1500 programs including trainings, workshops, seminars, conclaves and exposure visits covering wide range of stakeholders in Rural Development & Panchayati Raj.

I appreciate the efforts of CRTCN Team in bringing out the Training Calendar 2024-25 by consolidating the requirements in a systematic manner. I am sure that this calendar will help the clientele to choose and participate in relevant programs of NIRDPR in order to develop their capabilities and deliver their services effectively in their respective States/UTs.

APPROACH TO NIRDPR TRAINING CALENDAR 2024-25

In order to identify the specific capacity building and training needs of the stakeholders and deliver demand driven programs, a focused approach was adopted in preparing the Training Calendar for 2024-25.

The key focus areas were identified based on the -

- ✓ outcomes of the workshops conducted on various thematic areas
- ✓ requirements received from various programme divisions of MoRD and other Ministries
- ✓ requirements received from NITI Aayog for Aspirational Blocks Programme (ABP), Aspirational Districts Programme (ADP) and State Support Mission (SSM)
- ✓ outcomes of various research findings
- ✓ Minutes of Performance Review Committee (PRC) meetings
- ✓ Annual Action Plan and Quarterly Action Plan meetings involving the RD&PR stakeholders from all States/UTs
- ✓ Suggestions received from GC and EC members
- ✓ feedback received from the participants
- ✓ requirements received from State Governments, SIRDPRs and ETCs

The training focus of the individual centres are given in detail below:

Centre for Human Resource Development (CHRD) : This year the focus of CHRD diverges from the traditional emphasis on augmenting the human resource pool through skill enhancement to an expanded behavioural portfolio. This approach signifies a holistic development strategy, aiming to equip rural development functionaries not only with advanced skill sets but also with a comprehensive functional and behavioral acumen. This will enhance the capability of human resources working under Rural Development sector ensuring that functionaries technically proficient and skillful at managing the human dimensions of their roles.

In addition to this, the centre offers Management Development Programmes (MDPs) specifically tailored for Project Directors/Officers of the District Rural Development Agency (DRDA) and Block Development Officers. CHRD will also offer specialized programmes in Training Methodology, Research Methodology, Sansad Adarsh Gram Yojana (SAGY), rural health and education.

Centre for Gender Studies and Development (CGSD): For the year 2024-25, Centre for Gender Studies and Development takes an innovative stride towards addressing maternal and child nutrition with a keen focus on integrating a life cycle approach into behavioral change communication (BCC). Recognizing that malnutrition perpetuates across generations, this fresh perspective through BCC aims to bring a transformative change. By emphasizing training in this area, the Centre endeavors to break the cycle of malnutrition, ensuring healthier future generations.

Moreover, the Centre is adopting a saturation approach to achieve malnutrition-free gram panchayats. In addition to these critical areas, the Centre is placing a significant emphasis on the gender perspective to climate change. Given the complex relationship between gender and environmental sustainability, this year's training will also cover how gender responsiveness can be created within climate change adaptation strategies.

Centre for Equity and Social Development (CESD): The Centre has dedicated efforts to maximizing the benefits of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) for the SC/ST communities. Building on this foundation, it is now expanding its focus to include Persons with Disabilities (PwD). The goal is to ensure that PwDs can also access and benefit from the scheme's provisions, thereby fostering an inclusive approach to social and economic development. Special focus will be given on PESA (Panchayats Extension to Scheduled Areas) Act, as only 4 states have brought out PESA Rules, out of 10 PESA States. To bridge this gap, the Centre plans to organize a writeshop, an intensive workshop designed to draft the necessary rules, thus empowering tribal communities in these areas.

The Centre is also setting its sights on some crucial areas this year, with a special emphasis on the Particularly Vulnerable Tribal Groups (PVTG) mission. By concentrating on strengthening PVTGs, the Centre aims to support these communities, ensuring their preservation and advancement. Indigenous knowledge, recognized for its significant contribution to rural development, will also receive focused attention, acknowledging its value in enhancing sustainable practices and livelihoods.

Centre of Agrarian Studies (CAS): At the Centre for Agrarian Studies, this year's focus is set on a blend of traditional excellence and pioneering areas. A core part of our mission is to implement Good Agricultural Practices (GAP), ensuring that farmers and agricultural professionals are equipped with the knowledge and tools necessary for sustainable farming. Additionally, the Centre places significant emphasis on integrating agriculture development planning through the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP).

Venturing into new territory, this year's training will focus on financing climate-resilient food systems. Moreover, the Centre will explore innovative practices in the rural economy, with vertical farming and aquaculture. These practices represent methods that can improve rural economies by optimizing land use for agricultural production and leveraging aquatic farming to enhance food security.

Centre for PG Studies and Distance Education (CPGSDE): This year, the CPGS is focusing on expanding its training offerings with an emphasis on rural management including Management Development Programmes (MDP) and special programmes on health. Tailored training programs for State Rural Livelihoods Missions (SRLMs) and Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Grameen Kaushalya Yojana (DDUGKY) participants are at the forefront. Additionally, the Centre is venturing into the cooperative sector, aligning its efforts with the business allocations of the Ministry of Rural Development (MoRD). This new focus aims to explore and leverage the potential of cooperatives in strengthening rural economies, enhancing collective efforts, and improving the socio-economic status of rural communities.

Centre for Wage Employment and Livelihoods (CWEL): At the Centre for Wage Employment and Livelihoods, this year's agenda is robust with a comprehensive roadmap that aligns the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). This alignment is strategic, highlighting MGNREGS not just as an employment scheme but as a vital contributor to achieving broader sustainable development targets.

A pivotal area of focus will be the financial management of MGNREGS. The Centre aims to enhance how financial resources within the scheme are managed, emphasizing efficiency, transparency, and accountability. This effort is crucial for maximizing the impact of funds and ensuring they are directed towards meaningful and sustainable projects.

Further, the integration of the labour budget with the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP) represents a significant step towards achieving synergy and convergence, particularly in the realm of infrastructure development within panchayats. This integration seeks to ensure that infrastructure projects are not only well-funded but are also responsive to the local community's needs and aspirations.

Additionally, the Centre is setting its effort in overcoming the challenges in the implementation of MGNREGS: achieving the proper proportion of material to labour composition. This issue has been an enduring obstacle to maximizing the efficiency and effectiveness of the scheme. Through dedicated efforts, research, and innovative approaches, the Centre is committed to addressing this challenge, aiming to refine and optimize the balance between material costs and labour, thereby enhancing the overall impact and sustainability of MGNREGS projects.

Centre for Rural Infrastructure (CRI): Centre for Rural Infrastructure focuses with a particular emphasis on the Jal Jeevan Mission (JJM), noted for its swift implementation pace. A key area of focus will be the development of a finance model dedicated to Operations and Maintenance (O&M), ensuring the sustainability and efficiency of water supply systems under JJM. This initiative is crucial for the long-term success and reliability of water services in rural areas.

Moreover, the Centre recognizes the potential of Unnat Bharat Abhiyan (UBA) institutions as powerful allies in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). By strengthening these institutions and building their capacities, the Centre aims to create a robust network of support for rural development, working in tandem with State Institutes of Rural Development (SIRDs) and Extension Training Centres (ETCs).

Acknowledging the importance of quality in rural infrastructure projects, the Centre is committed to making systematic efforts to analyze and ensure the high quality of development work. This will involve rigorous assessment and evaluation mechanisms, designed to uphold standards and drive improvements across all projects. Through these focused efforts, the Centre for Rural Infrastructure aims to make significant impact in rural development, contributing to the achievement of the SDGs and enhancing the quality of life for rural communities.

Centre for Entrepreneurship Development and Financial Inclusion (CEDFI): This year, the Centre for Entrepreneurship Development and Financial Inclusion is focusing on transformative initiatives that promise to revitalize rural economies. One such is the formalization of rural and household enterprises, a move aimed at integrating these entities into the broader economic framework. By formalizing these enterprises, we're not just recognizing their value but also opening up avenues for their growth, access to finance, and sustainability.

In addition to this, rural tourism and homestays are identified as pivotal areas with immense potential to boost employment and economic activity in rural areas. These initiatives serve dual purposes: they highlight the rich cultural and natural heritage of rural regions, making them attractive destinations for tourists, and simultaneously create numerous employment opportunities for local communities. By focusing on these areas, the Centre is committed to fostering entrepreneurship and financial inclusion, ensuring that rural enterprises thrive and contribute significantly to the rural economy.

Centre for Natural Resource Management, Climate Change & Disaster Mitigation (CNRMCCDM): This year, the Centre for Natural Resource Management, Climate Change, and Disaster Mitigation is focusing on a range of critical initiatives. Key among these is the participatory watershed management under WDC-PMKSY 2.0, aiming to boost sustainable income by harnessing technology and innovative institutional arrangements for water resource management. The Centre is also committed to biodiversity conservation, including wetlands, through initiatives like Amrit Dharohar and ePBR, ensuring their sustainable use. Diversifying livelihoods to combat climate change, establishing insurance-based safety nets for disaster management, and understanding the impact of climate change on poverty are pivotal. Additionally, promoting biodiversity-based products, utilizing remote sensing for biodiversity monitoring, spearheading climate change adaptation at the Gram Panchayat level, and advocating for regenerative agriculture biodiversity are on our agenda, marking a comprehensive approach to environmental sustainability and resilience.

Centre for Planning, Monitoring and Evaluation (CPME): At the Centre for Planning, Monitoring, and Evaluation, our focus this year is in elevating the management of rural development programs and projects to new heights of professionalism. We are dedicated to not just overseeing these initiatives but to enriching them with advanced planning, monitoring, and evaluation techniques. Our training will focus on professional tools designed to revolutionize program management. These tools aim to empower participants with the knowledge and skills needed to manage rural development programs more effectively, ensuring they are executed with precision, efficiency, and, most importantly, impactful results. This approach signifies our commitment to professionalizing program management within the domain of rural development, aiming for a future where every project is a beacon of success and sustainability.

Centre for CSR, Public Private Partnership and People's Action (CSRPPP&PA): This year, the Centre for CSR, Public Private Partnership, and People's Action is focus on bridging the gap between community needs and corporate social responsibility (CSR) resources. Central to our training agenda is enhancing the capacity for writing proposals that can draw CSR funding to village-level projects and identifying key CSR organizations for fruitful networking and collaboration towards development goals. The programs also aim to support expertise in integrating CSR and Public-Private Partnership (PPP) approaches within RD efforts, promoting a convergence between PPP and CSR in RD programs. By focusing on these areas, the Centre is committed to fostering a collaborative ecosystem that leverages CSR and PPP for impactful rural development.

Centre for Good Governance & Policy Analysis (CGGPA): The Centre for Good Governance & Policy Analysis is dedicated to enhancing governance through a series of focused trainings this year. Key areas include deploying tools and techniques to foster accountability and transparency. Trainees will also explore the application of good governance principles within flagship programs, emphasizing the importance of public participation in the governance process. Another vital area is NGO management and resource mobilization, equipping organizations with the skills to thrive and contribute effectively to development goals. The training will cover eGramSwaraj and online audit processes, critical for streamlining governance and financial management at the grassroots. Additionally, cybersecurity for Rural Development & Panchayati Raj functionaries, along with MIS and data analytics training for RD professionals, will ensure that data-driven decision-making and IT security are central to governance.

Centre for Rural Marketing and Promotion of Rural Products, Enterprise Development (CRMPRED): Moving away from organizing the traditional SARAS Mela, the Centre will now focus on delivering specialized certificate programs in marketing and export for Self-Help Group (SHG) products. This shift emphasises a commitment to providing SHGs with the skills and knowledge needed to reach broader markets, both domestically and internationally. The Centre is dedicated to developing a comprehensive framework for the export of SHG products, aiming to open new avenues for rural enterprises. This framework will guide SHGs in understanding the complexities of the export market but also ensure that rural products find their rightful place in the global marketplace, enhancing economic empowerment and sustainability for rural communities.

Centre for Geo-informatics Applications in Rural Development (CGARD): This year, the Centre for Geo-informatics Applications in Rural Development acknowledges a critical gap: Rural Development (RD) beneficiaries have yet to fully harness the potential of ISRO's open data. In response, the Centre is poised to bridge this gap, ensuring that the wealth of information available can effectively enhance rural development efforts. A strong focus will be placed on climate change and geospatial data analysis, leveraging this technology to better understand and mitigate environmental challenges.

Furthermore, the Centre is exploring the promising interface between Artificial Intelligence (AI) and geoinformatics. This synergy has the potential to revolutionize how we gather, analyze, and apply geographic data, offering new insights and solutions for complex rural development issues. Another emerging focus area is the application of geoinformatics in biodiversity conservation, where it can play a pivotal role in monitoring and preserving ecological diversity.

Additionally, drone technology will be highlighted for its transformative potential in rural development. Drones offer innovative ways to conduct land surveys, monitor agricultural lands, and assess disaster impacts, making them invaluable tools in advancing rural development initiatives.

Centre for Innovations and Appropriate Technologies for Skills and Jobs (CIAT&SJ): The Centre for Innovations and Appropriate Technologies for Skills and Jobs firmly believes in the role of technology as a catalyst for economic growth, especially in rural areas. Recognizing technology as a vital additive, the Centre is gearing up to offer training programs that align with this vision, designed to propel economic advancement through technological empowerment. Among the key initiatives is the promotion of solar connections in households, a move that resonates with the Government of India's priorities for sustainable and renewable energy sources. Furthermore, the Centre is venturing into the innovative use of machinery in processing banana fibre, exploring its potential to revolutionize the local economy and create new job opportunities. By focusing on such appropriate technologies, the Centre aims to equip individuals with the skills and knowledge needed to harness technology effectively, thereby driving economic growth and enhancing livelihoods in rural communities.

Centre for Social Audit (CSA): The Centre for Social Audit is channeling their efforts into a multifaceted approach to enhance transparency and accountability across various programs and initiatives. A prime focus will be on conducting a thorough social audit of the Samagra Siksha Scheme, aiming to assess its effectiveness and impact comprehensively. Additionally, the centre will focus on challenges and issues surrounding the use of Management Information Systems (MIS) in social audits, seeking to streamline and improve this crucial process.

Training programs will see a significant boost, with the Centre organizing Management Development Program (MDP) for State Resource Persons (SRPs) of Social Audit Units (SAUs), as well as specialized training for Ombudsmen. Directors of social audits can look forward to workshops designed to enhance their skills and knowledge, while SAU Resource Persons will have the opportunity to participate in certificate courses tailored to their needs.

The Centre is also set to provide Self-Help Group (SHG) Village Resource Persons (VRPs) with training on social audit methodologies, ensuring grassroots-level projects are executed with integrity and accountability. Highlighting the global perspective, the Centre host an international workshop in collaboration with the African-Asian Rural Development Organization (AARDO), focusing on global social audit practices.

Centre for Internal Audit in Rural Development (CIARD): This year, the Centre for Internal Audit in Rural Development is embracing a comprehensive approach to rural audit and accounting in its training programs. The Centre is set to train State-level Master Trainers with the aim of strengthening the auditing processes. By collaborating with external agencies, it plans to offer specialized training courses for public auditors. This initiative is designed to ensure that audits of Panchayats are carried out systematically and effectively, enhancing accountability and transparency in rural governance.

Moreover, the Centre is committed to demystifying the Public Financial Management System (PFMS). This effort aims to make the PFMS more accessible and understandable to those involved in rural development programs, thereby improving the efficiency and efficacy of financial management in the sector. Through these focused training programs and initiatives, the Centre for Internal Audit in Rural Development aims to strengthen the audit and accounting practices within rural development, contributing to more vigorous and accountable governance structures.

Centre for Development Documentation & Communication (CDC): At the Centre for Development Documentation & Communication, this year's training portfolio includes programs designed for development practitioners. A key focus is on enhancing research capabilities through courses on Research Methods and Basic Statistics, providing participants with the foundational tools needed to conduct impactful development research. Equally important, the Centre will explore into the realms of Communication, Development Journalism, and Library Science. These programs aim to equip practitioners with advanced communication skills, journalistic insight for development narratives, and the knowledge to manage and utilize development-related information resources efficiently.

Centre for Information & Communication Technology (CICT): This year, the Centre for Information & Communication Technology is expanding its horizons by incorporating AI tools specifically tailored for Rural Development functionaries, enhancing their capacity to leverage technology for more impactful governance and development activities. This innovative addition builds on the Centre's existing array of training and development initiatives. Among these ongoing activities are the development of a budget module designed for NIRDPR, aimed at streamlining financial planning and management.

Furthermore, the focus will also extend to the creation and optimization of mobile applications that cater to the dynamic needs of rural development, ensuring that technology is accessible and beneficial at the grassroots level. Cybersecurity remains a priority, with comprehensive training to safeguard digital assets and information in an increasingly connected world. The adoption of e-Office practices will be promoted to enhance administrative efficiency, while training on Government e-Marketplace (GeM) and Common Procurement Portal (CPP) aims to facilitate smoother procurement processes.

Lastly, the use of Open Data Kit (ODK) tools will be emphasized for data collection and analysis, proving essential for fieldwork and research in rural development.

Centre for Research & Training Coordination and Networking (CRTCN): This year, the CRTCN is poised to launch a set of programs aimed at boosting the capabilities of the NIRDPR/SIRD faculty. An important aspect of this initiative is the assessment of competencies essential for conducting Training Needs Analysis (TNA), ensuring that training programs are tailored to meet the precise needs of the participants. Another significant endeavor is converting the implicit knowledge of practitioner participants into explicit knowledge. This process is crucial for capturing the experience and insights that trainees bring to NIRDPR, making it accessible for broader application and impact.

Additionally, the application of AI for research and productivity enhancement will be a key focus, offering faculty members innovative tools to elevate their work and efficiency. The creation of personal web pages for faculty members is also on the agenda, aimed at providing a platform to showcase their expertise, achievements, and contributions to rural development.

Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Grameen Kaushalya Yojana (DDU-GKY): The Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Grameen Kaushalya Yojana (DDU-GKY) is taking innovative steps forward with the establishment of 'Model Experience Centres'. These centres are envisioned as spaces where potential trainees can receive comprehensive counseling and education about the various skills training programs available. They aim to highlight the benefits and address any pitfalls associated with different skill sets, ensuring trainees make informed decisions that align with their career aspirations and the market demand.

In addition to this, DDU-GKY is taking initiatives for dual certification, aiming to enhance the employability of Indian skilled human resources on an international scale. This initiative focuses on providing trainees with certifications that are recognized both domestically and abroad, thus facilitating their placement in global job markets. By doing so, DDU-GKY seeks to open up new avenues for skilled workers from rural areas, enabling them to secure promising employment opportunities overseas and contribute to their personal development as well as to the nation's economic growth.

North Eastern Regional Centre (NERC): The North Eastern Regional Centre (NERC) is embarking on a journey to address unique regional challenges while contributing to broader national goals. A focal point of their initiatives is the development of community-based village disaster management plans, a crucial step in ensuring resilience and preparedness in the face of natural calamities. Additionally, NERC is planning series of training for Business Development Service Providers (BDSPs), aimed at nurturing entrepreneurial talent and stimulating economic growth in the region.

The Border Area Development Programme stands as another pillar of NERC's efforts, focusing on enhancing the infrastructure and living conditions of communities residing in border areas. In line with the national vision of achieving a 'Viksit Bharat', NERC is also engaged in state strategy preparation, assisting states to align their development strategies with this overarching vision.

A remarkable achievement to highlight is that some Gram Panchayats in the region have attained carbon neutrality. Inspired by this success, NERC is set to implement carbon neutral plans across more Panchayats, demonstrating leadership in environmental sustainability and setting a precedent for others to follow. Through these diverse initiatives, NERC is playing an important role in driving sustainable development and resilience in the North East, contributing significantly to the national goal of Viksit Bharat.
